26th Santa's Elves Telethon Raises Over $5K for Needy

Cameraman Jereme Cooper (in silhouette) holds shot steady as John Orthman of the Bellingham Business Association chats with hosts Lynn Ulsh (center) and Linda Trudeau. The Bellingham Women of Today organized the telethon which took place the night of Dec. 4.

Gifts and Donations Benefit Area Families

Continuing a tradition that goes back to 1987, the ABMI studio at 10 Williams Way once again served as host of a holiday telethon this past December to benefit local children and families in need.

Linda Trudeau, longtime producer of the ABMI talk show, Something Special, and Lynn Ulsh of the Bellingham Women of Today served as co-hosts for the three hour show.

Ulsh also organized the Telethon, something she has done annually for the past decade.

Gifts and donations valued at over $5,000 poured in from local scouting troops, the Bellingham Business Association, Bellingham Police, Northeastern Tae-Kwon-Do, and many other groups and individuals.

"It's wonderful to see the generosity of kids and parents at this time of the year," said Publicity Director Steve Saraceno. "We provide the stage, but they fill it with gifts."

ABMI upgrades large sign by Route 140; Board votes for Shain budget transfer

At the Nov. 5 Board of Directors Meeting, Secretary Earl Pearlman inquired about the station sign situated near Rt. 140. Station Manager Patrick Fleming informed him that the black panel display for ABMI will be replaced by a white panel. Fleming said he will also have the light repaired on the smaller sign in front of the studio.

In other business, the Board voted unanimously to grant a transfer of funds from the prop budget for Mike Shain's show Real Estate Roundtable in order to buy food for a holiday party for the crew.

Pearlman asked about the SCA-LA bulletin board system going down recently. Fleming told him a tech from SCALA came out to repair a computer on the system. It is working fine now.

Pearlman said he enjoyed Publicity Director Steve Saraceno's recent production of the Cardboard Boat Race video. Saraceno was asked if he could put up a bulletin board notice publicizing Ed Gidney's holiday get-together for those associated with his show, Talent Call USA.

Saraceno said he would put up a screen on the public channel.

Fleming announced that the door prizes for the Open House would include gift cards from Best Buy and a Bose Sound Box as the grand prize.

Pearlman said it was too bad that the announcers did not show for the recent BHS football game. Production Coordinator Erik Fischer said that he was at the field prepared with the set-up but could not shoot the game without announcers.

Pearlman said he is at work on the criteria for the ABMI Scholarship.

A Brace of Holiday Cheer at ABMI!

November and December featured more action than usual at the studio, with an Open House held Nov. 17, and many groups and organizations coming in to tape holiday greetings and promos.

Along with the food and beverages, visitors to the Open House took home some valuable door prizes. Below, Ryan Marquez receives $25 gift card
